

Ministers Code of Ethics and Conduct

All Ministers of religion who desire to hold, or currently hold a Certificate of ordination with United World Ministries are required to live according to the Ministerial Code of Ethics as stated below.

The minister must conduct themselves at all times as an example of the Spirit filled life of a Christian who personally knows the Lord Jesus Christ.

The minister must always exhibit proper moral behaviour towards the opposite sex.

The minister must aspire to be legal, moral and ethical in all aspects of life and ministry and show sound personal and ministerial financial responsibility.

If married, the minister must have a strong marriage and if there are children they must be in subjection and exemplify a Christ filled home.

The minister will be expected to give 100% commitment to excellence in all areas of their present ministry.

The minister must agree to be open and transparent and endeavour to perform their best before the Lord, before their peers and to the board of United World Ministries. The board honours the minister's personal responsibility to the Lord and does not desire to usurp this or interfere with but rather support this relationship.

The minister must commit to represent and promote United World Ministries in an excellent and positive manner both in the body of Christ and the community at large.

The minister must commit to follow the criteria for ministry as found in:-

1 Timothy 3: 1 to 13

Titus 1:6 to 16

Titus 2:1 to 15

Titus 3: 1 to 15
